It is very important for us to participate and explore new markets such as Azerbaijan. It is our first participation in ADEX. We are committed to this market – we have invested in one of the local companies with which we have a joint venture. Moreover, the Eurasian market is very interesting for us. We have already attracted many potential clients from the region, have conducted many meetings and have had productive interactions with different delegations, which will hopefully be translated into contracts very soon. This exhibition has been helpful above our expectations in achieving our local objectives.

One of our goal with Azerbaijan is to cooperate with Azerbaijan in terms of production and developing technologies together with local partners. That's why we have been participating to exhibition ADEX from the very first edition. Therefore, it's a pleasure for us as a Turkish company to see that ADEX has been evolving into a regional and to a global exhibition. In fact, I can easily say that it's becoming a regional hub definitely. I see that companies are not here only to sell something to Azerbaijan, but to cooperate with Azerbaijan for third countries and companies, conduct B2B meetings. That's very promising for ADEX to see that companies are here to cooperate.
